In the Matter of

Oneida County Department of Social Services ,
Petitioner

AMENDED DECISION

v.

FOF/143435

[REDACTED] Respondent

PRELIMINARY RECITALS

Pursuant to a petition filed August 28, 2012, under Wis. Admin. Code §HA 3.03, and see, 7 C.F.R. § 273.16, to review a decision by the Oneida County Department of Social Services to disqualify [REDACTED] from receiving FoodShare benefits (FS) for a period of one year, a hearing was held on November 05, 2012, at Rhinelander, Wisconsin. Petitioner did not arrive on time for the hearing. He claimed that he had not received notice though it was mailed to the correct address and not returned to the Department as undelivered. The hearing was begun 30 minutes after the time scheduled. Petitioner arrived six minutes after the hearing was begun in his absence. The testimony of the Department representative was summarized for him upon his arrival, and further testimony was taken from the respondent and the petitioner.

This is an Amended Decision. The initially issued Decision included an error in its statement of the Order. This Amended Decision corrects that error.

The issue for determination is whether the respondent committed an Intentional Program Violation (IPV).

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Petitioner (CARES # [REDACTED]) is a resident of Oneida County who received FS in Oneida County during the time period of August, 2010 to July, 2012.
2. In early 2010, petitioner was the casehead of his own FoodShare case. [REDACTED] [REDACTED] was the casehead of a separate FoodShare case.
3. In June 2010, the two were married and began living together.
4. From June 2010 until August 2012 there were at least four reviews of the case at which time the agency asked about changes to petitioner's house hold.
5. Petitioner did not inform his agency of the marriage or the cohabitation during any of these reviews or at any other time prior to June 2012.
6. On September 28, 2012, the Department sent petitioner an Administrative Disqualification Hearing Notice informing him that the Department had determined that she committed and intentional program violation.
7. Petitioner filed a timely appeal.

DISCUSSION

An IPV is defined at 7 C.F.R. §273.16(c) as intentionally: making a false or misleading statement or misrepresenting; concealing or withholding facts; or committing any act that constitutes a violation of the Food Stamp Act, federal regulations or any Wisconsin statute relating to the use, presentation, transfer, acquisition, receipt or possession of food stamp coupons or an authorization to participate (ATP) card.

The Department 's written policy restates federal law, below:

3.14.1 IPV Disqualification

7 CFR 273.16

A person commits an Intentional Program Violation (IPV) when s/he intentionally:

1. makes a false or misleading statement, or misrepresents, conceals or withholds facts; or
2. commits any act that constitutes a violation of the Food Stamp Act, the Food Stamp Program Regulations, or any Wisconsin statute for the purpose of using, presenting, transferring, acquiring, receiving, possessing or trafficking of FoodShare benefits or QUEST cards.

An IPV may be determined by the following means:

1. Federal, state, or local court order,
2. Administrative Disqualification Hearing (ADH) decision,
3. Pre-charge or pretrial diversion agreement initiated by a local district attorney and signed by the FoodShare recipient in accordance with federal requirements, or
4. Waiver of the right to an ADH signed by the FoodShare recipient in accordance with federal requirements.

FoodShare Wisconsin Handbook, § 3.14.1.

Wisconsin statutes provide, in the parts relevant here, as follows:

(2) No person may misstate or conceal facts in a food stamp program application or report of income, assets or household circumstances with intent to secure or continue to receive food stamp program benefits.

(2m) No person may knowingly fail to report changes in income, assets or other facts as required under 7 USC2015(c)(1) or regulations issued under that provision.

(3) No person may knowingly issue food coupons to a person who is not an eligible person or knowingly issue food coupons to an eligible person in excess of the amount for which the person's household is eligible.

(4) No eligible person may knowingly transfer food coupons except to purchase food from a supplier or knowingly obtain food coupons or use food coupons for which the person's household is not eligible.

(5) No supplier may knowingly obtain food coupons except as payment for food or knowingly obtain food coupons from a person who is not an eligible person.

(6) No unauthorized person may knowingly obtain, possess, transfer or use food coupons.

(7) No person may knowingly alter food coupons.

Wis. Stat. §§ 49.795(2-7).

The county agency may disqualify only the individual who either has been found to have committed the IPV or has signed a waiver or consent agreement, and not the entire household. If disqualified, an individual will be ineligible to participate in the FS program for one year for the first violation, two years for the second violation, and permanently for the third violation. However, any remaining household members must agree to make restitution within 30 days of the date of mailing a written demand letter, or their monthly allotment will be reduced. 7 C.F.R. §273.16(b).

In order for the county agency to establish that an FS recipient has committed an IPV, it has the burden to prove two separate elements by clear and convincing evidence. The recipient must have: 1) committed; and 2) intended to commit an intentional program violation per 7 C.F.R. §273.16(e)(6).

"Clear and convincing evidence" is an intermediate standard of proof which is more than the "preponderance of the evidence" used in most civil cases and less than the "beyond a reasonable doubt" standard used in criminal cases. It is used in civil cases where a higher standard is required because the outcome could result in serious social consequences for, or harsh effects on an individual. See 32A C.J.S., Evidence §1023. While the terminology for this intermediate standard of proof varies from state to state, it is clear that it is what is required by the FS regulations. See Jackson v. State, 546 So.2d 745 (Fla. App. 2 Dist. 1989).

There is no litmus test to show the trier of facts when properly admitted evidence is of a sufficient degree to be clear and convincing. In Smith v. Department of Health and Rehab. Serv., 522 So.2d 956 (Fla. App. 1 Dist. 1988), the court discussed this issue as it relates to a FS IPV:

In Slomowitz v. Walker, 429 So.2d 797, 800 (Fla. 4th. DCA 1983), the court held that: Clear and convincing evidence requires that the evidence must be found to be credible; the facts to which the witnesses testify must be precise and explicit and the witnesses must be lacking in confusion as to the facts in issue. The evidence must be of such weight that it produces in the mind of the trier of fact a firm belief or conviction, without hesitancy, as to the truth of the allegations sought to be established.

Smith, 522 So.2d at 958. The Wisconsin Supreme Court viewed the various standards of proof as degrees of certitude. In Kuehn v. Kuehn, 11 Wis.2d 15 (1959), the court held that:

Defined in terms of quantity of proof, reasonable certitude or reasonable certainty in ordinary civil cases may be attained by or be based on a mere or fair preponderance of the evidence. Such certainty need not necessarily exclude the probability that the contrary conclusion may be true. In fraud cases it has been stated the preponderance of the evidence should be clear and satisfactory to indicate or sustain a greater degree of certitude. Such degree of certitude has also been defined as being produced by clear, satisfactory, and convincing evidence. Such evidence, however, need not eliminate a reasonable doubt that the alternative or opposite conclusion may be true. In criminal cases, while not normally stated in terms of preponderance, the necessary certitude is universally stated as being beyond a reasonable doubt.

Kuehn, 11 Wis.2d at 26. Thus, in order to find that an IPV was committed, the trier of fact must derive from the evidence, a firm conviction as to the existence of each of the two elements even though there may exist a reasonable doubt that the opposite is true.

What is needed to prove the first element, that an IPV as defined in 7 C.F.R. §273.16(c) was committed, is clear. In order to prove the second element, there must be clear and convincing evidence that the FS recipient intended to commit the IPV. The question of intent is generally one to be determined by the trier of fact. State v. Lossman, 118 Wis.2d 526 (1984). There is a general rule that a person is presumed to know and intend the probable and natural consequences of his or her own voluntary words or acts. See John F. Jelke Co. v. Beck, 208 Wis. 650 (1932); 31A C.J.S. Evidence §131. Intention is a subjective state of mind to be determined upon all the facts. Lecus v. American Mut. Ins. Co. of Boston, 81 Wis.2d 183 (1977). Thus, there must be clear and convincing evidence that the FS recipient knew that the act or omission was a violation of the FS Program but committed the violation anyway.

At hearing, petitioner first explained that he did not hide anything from the Department. He stated that even though he became married and began living with Ms. [REDACTED] in June of 2010, he did not tell the Department about this change in circumstances because he does not see it as a change in household circumstances. He testified that he still believes that he is his own independent household despite being married and living with another person. This position is so preposterous that I found the testimony not credible. It seemed that Mr. [REDACTED] was simply saying this to avoid culpability. Following petitioner's testimony, Ms. [REDACTED] testified that she intentionally withheld facts from the agency because she did not want the fact of the marriage and cohabitation to impact her or petitioner's FoodShare. Following this admission by Ms. [REDACTED] I asked petitioner if he had anything he would like to clarify or add. He declined. On this record, the facts show an intentional program violation. I must affirm the Department action.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Petitioner committed an intentional program violation by intentionally failing to inform the Department of his marriage in June 2010 and his cohabitation with his wife.

THEREFORE, it is

ORDERED

That [REDACTED] [REDACTED] is hereby ineligible to participate in the Food Stamp program for a period of one year, effective the first month following the date of receipt of this decision.
