FINDINGS OF FACT

1. The petitioner (CARES #  is a Chippewa County resident who received FoodShare in 2012.

2. The petitioner failed to report that her children moved in with their father. As a result, she received $326 more in FoodShare than she was entitled to in December 2012.
3. The county agency notified the petitioner of her hearing date at least 30 days before it occurred.

DISCUSSION

An intentional policy violation of the FoodShare program occurs when a recipient intentionally does any of the following:

1. makes a false or misleading statement, or misrepresents, conceals or withholds facts; or
2. commits any act that constitutes a violation of the Food Stamp Act, the Food Stamp Program Regulations, or any Wisconsin statute for the purpose of using, presenting, transferring, acquiring, receiving, possessing or trafficking of FoodShare benefits or QUEST cards.

FoodShare Wisconsin Handbook, § 3.14.1; see also 7 C.F.R. §273.16(c) and Wis. Stat. §§ 49.795(2-7).

An intentional policy violation can be proved by a court order, a diversion agreement entered into with the local district attorney, a waiver of a right to a hearing, or an administrative disqualification hearing, FoodShare Wisconsin Handbook, § 3.14.1. The county agency can disqualify only the individual found to have committed the intentional violation; it cannot disqualify the entire household. Those disqualified are ineligible to participate in the FoodShare program for one year for the first violation, two years for the second violation, and permanently for the third violation. Although other family members cannot be disqualified, their monthly allotments will be reduced unless they agree to make restitution within 30 days of when the agency mails a written demand letter. 7 C.F.R. §273.16(b). The county agency has the burden of proving by clear and convincing evidence both that the recipient committed the violation and that she did so intentionally. 7 C.F.R. §273.16(e)(6).

The county agency alleges that the petitioner falsely claimed that her children were living with her after they had moved in with their father, which caused her to receive $326 more in FoodShare than she was entitled to in December 2012. She admitted this to the agency's investigator, Aaron Borreson, and did not appear at the hearing to challenge the agency's evidence. Mr. Borreson's testimony and the petitioner's lack of appearance together with documentation of an overpayment submitted at the hearing by Mr. Borreson establishes by clear and convincing evidence that she intentionally violated the FoodShare program's rules. Therefore, the agency correctly seeks to disqualify her from that program for one year.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The county agency can disqualify the petitioner from the FoodShare program for one year because it has established by clear and convincing evidence that she intentionally violated the rules of that program.

THEREFORE, it is

ORDERED

That the county agency may make a finding that the petitioner committed a first IPV of the FoodShare program and disqualify her from the program for one year.
