

STATE OF WISCONSIN

In the Matter of

Office of the Inspector General, Petitioner vs.

██████████, Respondent

DECISION

FOF/152356

The proposed decision of the Administrative Law Judge dated December 4, 2013, is modified as follows and, as such, is hereby adopted as the final order of the Department.

PRELIMINARY RECITALS

Pursuant to a petition filed September 23, 2013, under Wis. Admin. Code §HA 3.03, and see, 7 C.F.R. § 273.16, to review a decision by the Office of the Inspector General in regard to FoodShare benefits, a hearing was held on November 14, 2013, at Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

The issue for determination is whether the respondent committed an Intentional Program Violation (IPV) by trafficking her benefits.

There appeared at that time and place the following persons:

PARTIES IN INTEREST:

Petitioner:

Department of Health Services
Division of Health Care Access and Accountability
1 West Wilson Street
Madison, Wisconsin 53703

By: Erica Dresen
Office of the Inspector General

██████████

ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE:

Mayumi M. Ishii
Division of Hearings and Appeals

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Petitioner (CARES # [REDACTED]) is a resident of Milwaukee County who received FoodShare benefits during the time period of July - October 2012.
2. On October 9, 2013, the Office of the Inspector General (OIG) sent the Respondent an Administrative Disqualification Hearing Notice, Case Number [REDACTED], asserting that the Respondent committed an intentional program violation and received FoodShare benefits incorrectly between July 1, 2012 and October 31, 2012. (Exhibit 1)

DISCUSSION

Respondent's Non-appearance

The Respondent did not appear for this hearing. This circumstance is governed by the regulation in 7 C.F.R. §273.16(e)(4), which states in part:

If the household member or its representative cannot be located or fails to appear at a hearing initiated by the State agency without good cause, the hearing shall be conducted without the household member being represented. Even though the household member is not represented, the hearing official is required to carefully consider the evidence and determine if intentional Program violation was committed based on clear and convincing evidence. If the household member is found to have committed an intentional program violation but a hearing official later determines that the household member or representative had good cause for not appearing, the previous decision shall no longer remain valid and the State agency shall conduct a new hearing. The hearing official who originally ruled on the case may conduct a new hearing. In instances where the good cause for failure to appear is based upon a showing of nonreceipt of the hearing notice, the household member has 30 days after the date of the written notice of the hearing decision to claim good cause for failure to appear. In all other instances, the household member has 10 days from the date of the scheduled hearing to present reasons indicating a good cause for failure to appear. A hearing official must enter the good cause decision into the record.

Emphasis added

The hearing in this case took place on September 16, 2013. The Respondent did not contact the administrative law judge with a phone number where she could be reached. Ms. Dresen provided the last phone number that the Department of Health Services had on file for the respondent, [REDACTED]. An unsuccessful attempt was made to contact the respondent at that number. The Respondent did not contact the administrative law judge and did not submit anything within 10 days of the hearing date. As such, it is found that the Respondent did not have good cause for her non-appearance.

The Merits of OIG's Claim

An IPV is defined at 7 C.F.R. §273.16(c) as intentionally: making a false or misleading statement or misrepresenting; concealing or withholding facts; or committing any act that constitutes a violation of the Food Stamp Act, federal regulations or any Wisconsin statute relating to the use, presentation, transfer, acquisition, receipt or possession of food stamp coupons or an authorization to participate (ATP) card.

The Department of Health Service's written policy restates federal law, below:

3.14.1 IPV Disqualification

7 CFR 273.16

A person commits an Intentional Program Violation (IPV) when s/he intentionally:

1. makes a false or misleading statement, or misrepresents, conceals or withholds facts; or
2. commits any act that constitutes a violation of the Food Stamp Act, the Food Stamp Program Regulations, or any Wisconsin statute for the purpose of using, presenting, transferring, acquiring, receiving, possessing or trafficking of FoodShare benefits or QUEST cards.

An IPV may be determined by the following means:

1. Federal, state, or local court order,
2. Administrative Disqualification Hearing (ADH) decision,
3. Pre-charge or pretrial diversion agreement initiated by a local district attorney and signed by the FoodShare recipient in accordance with federal requirements, or
4. Waiver of the right to an ADH signed by the FoodShare recipient in accordance with federal requirements.

FoodShare Wisconsin Handbook, § 3.14.1.

In order for the OIG to establish that a FoodShare recipient has committed an IPV, it has the burden to prove two separate elements by clear and convincing evidence. The recipient must have: 1) committed; and 2) intended to commit an intentional program violation per 7 C.F.R. §273.16(e)(6).

"Clear and convincing evidence" is an intermediate standard of proof which is more than the "preponderance of the evidence" used in most civil cases and less than the "beyond a reasonable doubt" standard used in criminal cases. It is used in civil cases where a higher standard is required because the outcome could result in serious social consequences for, or harsh effects on an individual. See 32A C.J.S., Evidence §1023. While the terminology for this intermediate standard of proof varies from state to state, it is clear that it is what is required by the FoodShare regulations. See Jackson v. State, 546 So.2d 745 (Fla. App. 2 Dist. 1989).

Wisconsin Jury Instruction – Civil 205 is also instructive. It provides:

Clear, satisfactory and convincing evidence is evidence which when weighed against that opposed to it clearly has more convincing power. It is evidence which satisfies and convinces you that "yes" should be the answer because of its greater weight and clear convincing power. "Reasonable certainty" means that you are persuaded based upon a rational consideration of the evidence. Absolute certainty is not required, but a guess is not enough to meet the burden of proof. This burden of proof is known as the "middle burden." The evidence required to meet this burden of proof must be more convincing than merely the greater weight of the credible evidence but may be less than beyond a reasonable doubt.

Further, the McCormick treatise states that "it has been persuasively suggested that [the clear and convincing evidence standard of proof] could be more simply and intelligibly translated to the jury if they were instructed that they must be persuaded that the truth of the contention is highly probable." 2 McCormick on Evidence § 340 (John W. Strong gen. ed., 4th ed. 1992).

In Kuehn v. Kuehn, 11 Wis.2d 15, 26 (1959), the court held that, "Defined in terms of quantity of proof, reasonable certitude or reasonable certainty in ordinary civil cases may be attained by or be based on a mere or fair preponderance of the evidence. Such certainty need not necessarily exclude the probability that the contrary conclusion may be true. In fraud cases it has been stated the preponderance of the evidence should be clear and satisfactory to indicate or sustain a greater degree of certitude. Such degree of certitude has also been defined as being produced by clear, satisfactory, and convincing evidence. Such evidence, however, need not eliminate a reasonable doubt that the alternative or opposite conclusion may be true. In criminal cases, while not normally stated in terms of preponderance, the necessary certitude is universally stated as being beyond a reasonable doubt."

Thus, in order to find that an IPV was committed, the trier of fact must derive from the evidence, a firm conviction as to the existence of each of the two elements even though there may exist a reasonable doubt that the opposite is true.

In the case at hand, the Department of Health Services, Office of the Inspector General (OIG) asserts that the respondent intentionally violated SNAP regulations by trafficking his FoodShare benefits. 7 CFR §271.2 defines "trafficking" as, "the buying or selling of coupons, ATP cards or other benefits instruments for cash or consideration other than eligible food; or the exchange of firearms, ammunition, explosives, or controlled substances, as defined in section 802 of title 21, United States Code for coupons."

When asked for a specific theory of the case, the OIG indicated that it believed the respondent was purchasing non-eligible items with her FoodShare benefits or trading them for cash.

In order to prove that the respondent was otherwise trafficking benefits, the OIG relied upon an investigation of [REDACTED] & [REDACTED] (herein after referred to as [REDACTED]) conducted by an unidentified person employed by the FNS/USDA, whose report is contained in Exhibits 2 and 3.

The OIG argued that Respondent's use of her EBT card showed suspicious transactions, such as transactions with large dollar amounts (over $25.00 given the size of the store), large numbers of transactions in a short amount of time, and transactions with equal cent amounts. Exhibit 5 reveals the following behavior:

9/22/12:

1:57 pm	$107.50 (not [REDACTED])
2:41 pm	$274.67 (not [REDACTED])
3:30 pm	$ 1.00
3:34 pm	$ 45.00
3:35 pm	$ 35.00
5:11 pm	$.25

10/5/12:

10:44 am	$ 40.85
2:55 pm	$ 66.84 (not [REDACTED])
2:29 pm	$175.29 (not [REDACTED])
3:29 pm	$ 41.00
5:16 pm	$ 41.29

10/6/12:

7:52 am	$196.16 (not [REDACTED])
8:13 am	$ 3.00
1:46 pm	$ 1.85
1:49 pm	$ 26.00

Respondent made significant purchases elsewhere but immediately or in short order then spent even cent amounts at [REDACTED] often in quick succession. The [REDACTED] purchases are sizeable dollar amounts particularly after having made very large purchases at the other stores. This is indicative of trafficking behavior.

Because this is not a criminal case an inference can be drawn that when a respondent does not appear after being properly notified of the hearing that she could not defend herself against the allegations. Wisconsin Jury Instruction – Civil 205 provides in part:

Clear, satisfactory and convincing evidence is evidence which when weighed against that opposed to it clearly has more convincing power. It is evidence which satisfies and convinces you that "yes" should be the answer because of its greater weight and clear convincing power.

The record presented by OIG, combined with the permitted inference, satisfy me that Respondent committed a trafficking IPV.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

That the Office of Inspector General met its burden to prove, by clear and convincing evidence, that Petitioner trafficked her FoodShare benefits between July 1, 2012 and October 31, 2012.

ORDER

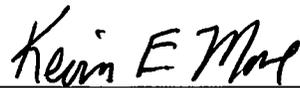

That IPV Case Number [REDACTED] is hereby upheld and that the Department of Health Services may impose the disqualification period.

APPEAL TO COURT

You may appeal this decision to Circuit Court in the county where you live. Appeals must be filed with the Court and served either personally or by certified mail on the Secretary of the Department of Health Services, 1 West Wilson Street, Room 651, Madison, WI, 53703, and on those identified in this decision as "PARTIES IN INTEREST" no more than 30 days after the date of this decision or 30 days after a denial of a timely rehearing request (if you request one).

The process for Circuit Court Appeals may be found at Wis. Stat. §§ 227.52 and 227.53. A copy of the statutes may be found online or at your local library or courthouse.
