DECISION

Case #: FOF - 164534

Pursuant to petition filed March 11, 2015, under 7 C.F.R. §273.16, to review a decision by the Office of the Inspector General (OIG) to disqualify Redact from receiving FoodShare benefits (FS) for ten years, a hearing was held on April 22, 2015, by telephone.

The issue for determination is whether the respondent committed an Intentional Program Violation (IPV).

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. The respondent (CARES # Redact) received FS benefits in Columbia County from September 16, 2013 through May 31, 2014.
2. The respondent applied for FS in Columbia County on September 16, 2013. He reported that he did not receive FS elsewhere. FS opened in Wisconsin effective that date.

3. In June, 2014 the Wisconsin agency received a match from Michigan noting that the respondent also received FS in Michigan. In fact he began to receive FS in Michigan on September 9, 2013, just days before he applied for FS in Wisconsin. He received FS in both states from September, 2013 until June, 2014. He used the FS almost exclusively in Wisconsin.
4. The Wisconsin agency determined that the respondent was overpaid FS totaling $387 from September, 2013 through May, 2014.
5. On March 16, 2015, the petitioner prepared an Administrative Disqualification Hearing Notice alleging that the respondent provided false information to receive FS to which he was not entitled.
6. The respondent failed to appear for the scheduled April 22, 2015 IPV hearing and did not provide any good cause for said failure to appear.

DISCUSSION

An intentional program violation of the FoodShare program occurs when a recipient intentionally does the following:

1. makes a false or misleading statement, or misrepresents, conceals or withholds facts;
or
2. commits any act that constitutes a violation of the Food Stamp Act, the Food Stamp Program Regulations, or any Wisconsin statute for the purpose of using, presenting, transferring, acquiring, receiving, possessing or trafficking of FoodShare benefits or QUEST cards.

FoodShare Wisconsin Handbook, §3.14.1; see also 7 C.F.R. §273.16(c) and Wis. Stat., §§946.92(2).

An intentional program violation can be proven by a court order, a diversion agreement entered into with the local district attorney, a waiver of a right to a hearing, or an administrative disqualification hearing. FoodShare Wisconsin Handbook, §3.14.1. The petitioner can disqualify only the individual found to have committed the intentional violation; it cannot disqualify the entire household. Although other family members cannot be disqualified, their monthly allotments will be reduced unless they agree to make restitution within 30 days of the date that the FS program mails a written demand letter. 7 C.F.R. §273.16(b).

There is a specific provision that applies to this case. 7 C.F.R. §273.16(b)(5) provides: "... an individual found to have made a fraudulent statement or representation with respect to the identity or place of residence of the individual in order to receive multiple food stamp benefits simultaneously shall be ineligible to participate in the Program for a period of 10 years."

7 C.F.R. §273.16(e)(4) provides that the hearing shall proceed if the respondent cannot be located or fails to appear without good cause. The respondent did not appear or claim a good cause reason for not attending the hearing. Therefore I must determine whether the respondent committed an IPV based solely on the evidence that the petitioner presented at hearing.

In order for the petitioner to establish that an FS recipient has committed an IPV, it has the burden to prove two separate elements by clear and convincing evidence. The recipient must have: 1) committed; and 2) intended to commit a program violation per 7 C.F.R. §273.16(e)(6). In Kuehn v. Kuehn, 11 Wis.2d 15 (1959), the court held that:

Defined in terms of quantity of proof, reasonable certitude or reasonable certainty in ordinary civil cases may be attained by or be based on a mere or fair preponderance of the evidence. Such certainty need not necessarily exclude the probability that the contrary conclusion may be true. In fraud cases it has been stated the preponderance of the evidence should be clear and satisfactory to indicate or sustain a greater degree of certitude. Such degree of certitude has also been defined as being produced by clear, satisfactory, and convincing evidence. Such evidence, however, need not eliminate a reasonable doubt that the alternative or opposite conclusion may be true....

Kuehn, 11 Wis.2d at 26.

Wisconsin Jury Instruction – Civil 205 is also instructive. It provides:

Clear, satisfactory and convincing evidence is evidence which when weighed against that opposed to it clearly has more convincing power. It is evidence which satisfies and convinces you that “yes” should be the answer because of its greater weight and clear convincing power. Reasonable certainty” means that you are persuaded based upon a rational consideration of the evidence. Absolute certainty is not required, but a guess is not enough to meet the burden of proof. This burden of proof is known as the “middle burden.” The evidence required to meet this burden of proof must be more convincing than merely the greater weight of the credible evidence but may be less than beyond a reasonable doubt.

Further, the McCormick treatise states that “it has been persuasively suggested that [the clear and convincing evidence standard of proof] could be more simply and intelligibly translated to the jury if they were instructed that they must be persuaded that the truth of the contention is highly probable.” 2 McCormick on Evidence, §340 (John W. Strong gen. ed., 4th ed. 1992).

In order to find that an IPV was committed, the trier of fact must derive from the evidence a firm conviction as to the existence of each of the two elements even though there may be a reasonable doubt as to their existence.

In order to prove the second element, i.e., intention, there must be clear and convincing evidence that the FS recipient intended to commit the IPV. The question of intent is generally one to be determined by the trier of fact. State v. Lossman, 118 Wis.2d 526 (1984). There is a general rule that a person is presumed to know and intend the probable and natural consequences of his or her own voluntary words or acts. See John F. Jelke Co. v. Beck, 208 Wis. 650 (1932); 31A C.J.S. Evidence §131. Intention is a subjective state of mind to be determined upon all the facts. Lecus v. American Mut. Ins. Co. of Boston, 81 Wis.2d 183 (1977). Thus there must be clear and convincing evidence that the FS recipient knew that the act or omission was a violation of the FS Program but committed the violation anyway.

Based upon the record before me, I find that the petitioner has established by clear and convincing evidence that the respondent intentionally violated FS program rules by fraudulently misrepresenting his state of residence in order to receive FS from two states. The respondent applied for FS in both states almost concurrently, and he never reported to either state that he was receiving FS in the other. The Wisconsin Department’s Deputy Secretary found in a similar, prior final decision the following:

[The] Respondent must be honest in her dealings with both states. The integrity of the program, and the ease and speed of application, must depend upon the accuracy and honesty in fact of applicants and recipients. A representation does not require an affirmative act. It may also occur by failing to disclose information that would correct a false impression. Here the respondent had a duty to disclose her residency, and that failure to disclose is a representation. See State v. Ploekelman, 2007 WI App 31, 299 Wis. 2d 251, Kaloti Enterprises, Inc. v. Kellogg Sales Company, 283 Wis. 2d 555 (2005). The Respondent allowed the continuing and false representation that she was a Missouri resident and denied on her Wisconsin application that she was receiving Foodshare in another state. This amounts to an intended misrepresentation of residency for the purpose of receiving duplicate benefits.

Final Decision no. FOF-154850, dated May 28, 2014, page 5. The petitioner correctly seeks to disqualify the respondent from the FS program for ten years.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The respondent violated, and intended to violate, the FS program rule specifying that a person shall not fraudulently receive FS in two states at the same time.

NOW, THEREFORE, it is ORDERED

That the petitioner’s determination is sustained, and the respondent is hereby ineligible to participate in the FS program for a period of ten years, effective the first month following the date of receipt of this decision.

REQUEST FOR A REHEARING ON GROUNDS OF GOOD CAUSE FOR FAILURE TO APPEAR

In instances where the good cause for failure to appear is based upon a showing of non-receipt of the hearing notice, the respondent has 30 days after the date of the written notice of the hearing decision to claim good cause for failure to appear. See 7 C.F.R. sec. 273.16(e)(4). Such a claim should be made in writing to the Division of Hearings and Appeals, P.O. Box 7875, Madison, WI 53707-7875.
