Stop trying to “clarify” what we get access to in terms of open records. I believe in open government and up until recently thought that Wisconsin was the top state for keeping public records public. I now find that politicians are trying to make changes assuming that the public won't notice. Reminder, the public pays the bills and salaries for those who are supposed to have our interests at heart. They now seem to want to come up with excuses as to why we don't need to see some electronic records. What are you trying to hide?

Open government was not a party issue. What the heck happened? Whoever is in power, I want to know what they are doing. I now don't trust anyone in the state GOP. They did it to themselves.
