Dear Sirs:

Wisconsin had long had a record as a state with with genuine democracy and clean government. We should be proud of this tradition under both Republican and Democratic administrations. My wife and I want to express our opposition to any change which would close off citizen access to the public work of our government servants. This applies to official records, but (in this electronic age) also to e-mails, text messages and other posts which relate to their work in a public capacity. We think only officials who have something to hide, or some corrupt intention, would want to close off citizen access to these resources. Therefore we respectfully ask you to take our opinion into account when making a decision on this issue.

Sincerely yours,

James Wagman and Mary Lou Kendrigan
