We would like to add our voices to those who are terribly concerned about democracy in Wisconsin. We feel that our governor and legislators should be representing their constituents and that we are entitled to know what discussions are taking place. That should mean that all forms of government discussions should be open to the public, including all electronic messages as well. We are very disappointed in our current lawmakers who want to do the state's business in secret. We will write to our representatives to express our disgust with what is going on in Wisconsin. We would hope that there will be another public outcry against these attempts to keep the public in the dark.
