To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to express my concerns over the decision to limit access to public records by the Public Records Board. I fail to see how secrecy and limits to the public's right to know can in any way improve our government or our democracy. I would think that we would welcome the interest of an informed citizenry in making decisions and formulating policy. It seems to me the only reason to limit such access is in an effort to conceal what is happening in our government. In the interest of good government, please reverse this decision.

Thank you for your time.
