Subject: Honest government in the electronic age

Please retract your attempt at the degradation of Wisconsin 's long history of honest government by including all electronic communication as accessible under the open records law. Of course, in this connected age, this type of communication will be used by government officials and if they are being honest will have no qualms about having it accessible to the public.

The public will be watching closely, and I can only hope you will respond for the call for honest government by correcting your earlier mistake and in the future be more up front about any attempts to subvert it.

Sincerely,
Monica Sem
Richfield, Wisconsin
