An open government is an honest government. Any medium of communication between and among those who have been given the responsibility to represent the citizens of our state should be open and available for review. Why would an alternative even be considered? There is apparently, a great deal of concern over exposure of the truth.

As recently retired, life-long residents of Wisconsin, we feel this most recent action by the Public Records Board, combined with a long list of other ethical and citizens-rights violations by our elected officials, leaves no alternative other than to consider moving from our state.

Shame on all of you.
