Subject: Open Records or Just Some Open Records

Please consider all forms of communication as subject to open records rules. More and more of the daily business of government is conducted via text messages, e-mails and instant messaging. How else are we to hold our elected representatives and their appointed employees responsible for their actions if we don't have appropriate access to their communications?

Don't let these kinds of electronic communications become "under the table" or "behind closed doors" kinds of activities. The purpose of government is to serve the people and needs to be transparent so that we can always hold those serving us to that simple standard.

Sincerely
