Subject: Public Records Access

The action last summer to limit access to public records was a huge mistake. It is another step in a deeply troubling movement to secretive government. Those who are running our state apparently fear an informed electorate. The outrageous efforts by Republican legislators to do their work in secret has damaged Wisconsin's representative democracy. Any limits on access to public records cause more damage to a representative democracy. Limitations on citizens' ability to access public records should be removed without further discussion.
