As a citizen of the United State of America if any public servent either elected or not, if you put your personal business out there like on Facebook or any other form of social media, why should you be treated another way. Because, you are an elected person. You knew what you were getting yourself into when your name was posted on thr ballot. If you want it to be private then you shouldn't put your business out there for people to see. This problem is a simple solution. Keep what you don't want people to see to yourself. The politions should stay out of this one.

Sincerely
I'm keeping my business to myself.
