As a citizen of Wisconsin, I must state emphatically that I am opposed to the proposed changes to the definition of public records. I cannot see how the people of Wisconsin benefit from less transparency in the archiving of records, and honestly, was there really a call from the citizens of the state for these proposed measures? This seems like a very self-serving change designed to primarily keep the people of Wisconsin in the dark.

If either of my representatives support these measures, although I prefer not to be a single issue voter, I will not be voting for them in the next election.

Very sincerely,
Timothy Strane
