State Public Records Board
Madison, WI

Ref: Definition of "Transitory Records"

Dear Board Members,

At a time when metadata collection and the privacy rights of individuals are being trampled on by the government I am surprised to read that the Public Records Board unilaterally moved to restrict access to the communications of public officials doing the people's business. I personally want to know what my elected and government appointed officials are doing. Your new definition of Transitory Records does not allow for the safe keeping and open review of these communications by the public. This action creates a veil of secrecy to exist that creates distrust and fear of the people elected to protect the rights of all Wisconsinites.

I urge you to void your action and continue to maintain access to all public and private communications done by our public officials doing business for the state.

Sincerely,
Michael Lemberg
